Generally, I would think a regional message would be justified, if our full workforce was coming into the office. Given the low number of staff coming in our offices during COVID, I do not think we should send out a region-wide message.

However, we could send a group message for the staff on our daily access request list to given them some awareness.

Thanks.

HQ sent out a Mass Mailer re: Excused Absence for voting on Oct 22. I don't think we are doing a R9 message on it too.

Hi Kerry,

I think if any of the potential protests were (a) closer to the building, and (b) on a day when more people were planning to be in the office, it might make sense to spread the word. But when only 3 people are scheduled to go in, I don't see a need.

However, if any messaging is going out re: leave for voting, then it might make sense to tack on a short note about possible demonstrations.

Carl or Diana, what do you think?

Thanks,
Michael

Hi Michael,

Do you think we should forward this information through an R9 Communicator to ensure widest possible coverage? What are your thoughts?
